The year of the fire horse will be a fast, exciting, energetic year.
The feelings of optimism and hope will return after the heavy cleansing and stripping back over recent years.
The foundations for peace, prosperity and progress are now emotionally and spiritually in place.
Many new technological systems, which had previously been in the design or innovation stage, will now be launched.
The key areas of finance, medical technology, communications and infrastructure, maglev, freedom cities and AI will now move at rapid pace.
A new flow of optimism will return in the year of the horse.

The happy, cheerful vibrations of the Chinese horse will lift the whole world and things will evolve tenfold in all areas of the world at this time.
The year of the horse will serve as the optimistic springboard towards the golden age.
Issues in technology, infrastructure, software and hardware will all change towards the orientations of space and decentralisation.
Government and bureaucratic structures will be devolved at an ever-fast pace.
And the people will regain a sense of hope, optimism and inner happiness.
The world will transform mind, body and soul.
And the people will embrace it all.
Visions in faith, identity and culture will diminish as the world energetically and spiritually is now online to its maximum capacity.
Awareness and awakening will continue to grow.
They will continue to grow exponentially.
And a feeling of community and love thy neighbour will be felt as the heavy cleansing and karmic energies of the year of the snake dissipate.
It will be a summer of love in 2026.
Old ties that no longer serve or prevent our ascension, they will be dissolved and new love will flood to all relationships which were previously held back by circumstance.
Twin flames will reunite and their expanded heart emanations will flood out and elevate the entire world.
Twin missions will now be activated and soul families and divine mates will start to form with passion and vigour.
The horse is open, honest and loving.
The energy will flood out to the whole of humanity from this majestic animals symbolic presence.
Things previously held up for review or analysis will now suddenly move forward with passion and speed.
This will embrace each other eagerly as everyone now feels like they have stepped onto the precipice of a new world.
This is the awakening for humanity.

It has been arduous and people have worked hard emotionally, physically and spiritually.
This is a year of love, peace and goodwill to our fellow man.
The melancholy and deep relentless purging will now ease up and people will feel exhilarated and they will want to serve in their passion.
Spirituality will become more and more mainstream as the energy of the deeply spiritual horse floods vibrationally all over and through the lands.
Metaphorically all people, all nations, all cultures will now join hands as one.
This is a time of enlightenment, of rapture and hearts will spontaneously burst open and great emanations of spiritual love will be felt far and wide.
In the lightened and finer vibrations, beings of love, angels, masters and Galactics will pour their loving energies onto the masses.
The year of the horse is a year for great rejoicing.
As we gallop now triumphantly towards the Golden Age, we see that everything that went before was the foundational energetic work that we all needed to undergo collectively.
We were encouraged to let go of the old outdated patterns of service to self and to go inwards and find our compassion and empathy, not just for self but for the whole of humanity.
Deep thought, deep contemplation and walking sometimes through valleys of darkness has now brought everyone up towards the top of the mountain.
We can now look out and see the wider vision.
The collective will now start to understand the process of awakening that has been in action.
The energy of love will now pervade the fabric of people's lives.
Where there had been a feeling of loss or despair, it will now be transformed into a new path, a new perspective, a new vibration.
In the year of the horse, people will travel, they will travel more, sometimes to new and previously unknown places.
Innovators and entrepreneurs will get a burst of creative, inspired ideas and generosity of spirit will be seen in daily life across all nations.

It is as if the weight of karmic transformation is now completed and people are feeling reborn.
More emphasis will be placed on freedom, freedom of expression and independence from the old structures.
The top down structures will start to become a thing of the past.
Communities will form rapidly with enthusiasm going forward and all aspects of daily life will come up for review.
Do I enjoy my work?
What is my passion?
Do I want to travel or relocate?
Do I want to work less and play more?
What do I want my local community to look like?
What park can I play in its transformation?
Do I love?
Instead of deep dark delving energies, it will be playful and fun, light and exuberant.
The year of the horse is the year of divine love.
Find your divine mate, find your divine life, be divine.
The horse is a divinely majestic creature who walks both in splendor and in service.
In the year of the horse people will ask, how may I serve?
Life will be highlighted, it will be a highlighted theme in the year of the horse.
The horse is open, loyal, truly loving and in need of community of belonging.
These energies will permeate people's decisions in this loving, optimistic year of compassion, empathy and service.
The loyal elegant horse wants to serve, to explore.
But mostly the horse energy wants to feel the exhilaration of the wind, feel the energy of the sea and the beauty of the view.
The horse wants to feel, to express and to love, to run free and then return with such happiness of heart, spirit and mind.
Transport systems which represent freedom of movement will start to change exponentially as new forms of transportation are now introduced and adopted.

New energy systems which represent the horse's live wire vibe, the live wire vibe for life, will now see the introduction and adoption of energy systems which flow and vibrate without harm to the environment.
Food will now be treated more respectfully as a return to fresh, organic or pesticide-free methods of farming are introduced and community gardens and markets of fresh produce will start to develop exponentially.
As wealth now starts to be evenly distributed and allocated in a fairer system of birthright income.
People will start to relax into a shorter working week. They will feel more relaxed, less stressed and pastimes and hobbies will begin to grow and become more commonplace.
Children will notice the reduced stress on their parents and will in turn be able to be more playful, relaxed and exuberant.
With cleaner energy systems, the wildlife will start to expand and may start to overflow more into built up areas which will reduce the divide between the rural and the city lines.
The cleaner, safer transport will allow for safety as more wild animals become more familiar with visiting cities, the freedom cities with their healing gardens.
